EDITOR'S PREFACE

"A man's true greatness lies in the consciousness of an honest purpose in life, founded on a just estimate of himself and everything else, on frequent self-examinations, and a steady obedience to the rule which he knows to be right."

—MEDITATIONS OF MARCUS AURELIUS

This volume of Who's Who for the state of Colorado, has been compiled for the benefit of those who seek an accurate* source of information relative to those personalities who have contributed in notable degree to the industrial, commercial, and financial success and progress of Colorado. It is a volume which will command the attention of the learned person who has become familiar with the names of the individuals who, in the present day, are responsible for the growth and gains made for and in the state. The selection of names for inclusion within this work is based generally on the prominence and reputation of the subject himself.

We have devoted unlimited time to the compilation of the many thousands of biographies found in this volume and in its companion volume, Who's Who for Denver and Colorado; we have attempted to include every individual within the scope of those generally successful in nearly all endeavors. We are proud of the fact that no sketch included is dependent upon financial reasons for entry. Each name has been carefully selected entirely upon merit, with a specific system of elimination accepting only the manuscript of those whom we felt were worthy of the recognition given in this manner.

Hundreds of the state's most successful and prominent citizens volunteered and assisted in the compilation of this work. We take this opportunity to thank them for the many hours of time that were given us. The list of the names of these persons is so lengthy, that we choose to thank them collectively. Among this group are men whose judgement is unquestioned, university presidents, corporation presidents, jurists of the highest rank, and professional men within the scientific fields.

The biographical sketches have been written in a most condensed version, but in a style that has minimized space sufficiently that a large readable type could be used. We believe that the brevity, style of punctuation, and abbreviation will be quickly understood, and will please editors, librarians, educators, students and other users and readers of this volume.

We have given frank recognition to lineage: to those founded in the native soil; to those destined to become the ancestry of the future generations of Colorado. These are the names which make the history of our state, making the work also a contemporary history book.

We realize that a few days can change the status of facts contained in this volume, but we believe that the information herein is fundamentally accurate. We have attempted to keep the pace in changes, by sending series of proofs and making necessary additions and corrections. Many months have been devoted to the research and personal correspondence necessary to the building of this book. This work has been completed with the hope that the pressing need for a ready reference volume of the noteworthy in Colorado will be fulfilled by the issuance of this new edition of Who's Who for Colorado.

The people of Colorado are blessed with a state rich in lands, minerals, and scenic beauty. However, the resources of Colorado depend upon its people; this book is an eloquent testimony of what has been done by the many thousand leading citizens of Colorado represented in this book.

Geographical Index

Includes additional data, late changes 1940 CENSUS OF CITIES AND COUNTIES

The page number is given for sketches which appear in this volume. In many cases in which an individual resides in one city but has interests to a large extent in another, the name is geographically placed in each. Where a double asterisk (§) precedes a name no sketch appears, but the name is included in the index, with some data, for general interest. The letter "D" preceding a page number indicates that an additional sketch or more data is to be found in Capitol's 1940-43, "Who's Who for Denver and Colorado". The letter "C" indicates this volume "Who's Who for Colorado". 1941-43. The Addenda is to be found in the colored section.
